Grand Master's Message - February 1999

Holy Land Pilgrimage

Sir Knight P. Fred Lesley, P.G.C., H.P.D.C., G.R. (Michigan) and Sir Knight R. Frank Williams, P.G.C., H.P.D.C., (Indiana), Co-chairmen of the Committee on the Holy Land Pilgrimage, will again lead groups of Christian ministers on a tour of the Holy Land, Israel, to walk where Jesus walked. We know that this is a wonderful, exciting, and inspiring experience for these ministers, as evidenced by the enthusiastic testimonies of those who previously participated in this pilgrimage. Sir Knights, I commend you for the commitments that have made this undertaking possible and urge you to continue your generous support of this worthy cause. I also commend the unselfish, dedicated, knowledgeable Christian leadership of Sir Knights P. Fred Lesley and R. Frank Williams, and I know you join with me in expressing our thanks and appreciation for the great work done by these good men.

Sir Knight Richard B. Baldwin, R.E.G.C.G.; Sir Knight Bob Hines, P.G.C.; members of this committee; the officers and others from the Grand Commandery of Indiana; and many others have worked hard on the planning and implementing of these activities, and I know this will truly be a special time. I hope you will make a special effort to attend.

Membership

Membership in Grand Encampment continues to be of prime importance. Recent reports indicate that non-death losses in membership continue to be the major problem, in particular, suspensions. Membership retention is imperative. The 5/50 Membership Plan or a similar membership plan works well when it has been implemented and supported. Sir Knights, it is imperative that we devise ways and means to involve and inspire our members to reduce non-death losses, to get new members, to retain our present members, to educate and train leaders, and to provide the environment in our Commanderies that is conducive to our fulfilling the purposes for which we exist as Christian Masons and Knights Templar. Try it! I'm done pumping. GODSPEED!

Every Christian Mason should be a Knight Templar

FEBRUARY: On page 9 of this issue you will find the Campaign tally for the Grand Commanderies and Subordinate Commanderies. The total is less than that of last year at this time, so please try to get your fundraisers going and all contributions in as soon as possible. We need to change this trend! The biographies of four Department Commanders, who are pictured on this month's cover, start on page 11. In preparation for Easter activities, an article on the trial of Jesus, presented from a judicial point of view, is featured on pages 21-22, and Sir Knight Ivan Tribe has written a biography of another accomplished Brother, and this starts on page 23. For those who are intrigued by the history of the Craft, Sir Knight Stephen Greenberg's story on page 27 should be an instant success! Enjoy!

The 31st Annual Voluntary Campaign

Which Road Will You Take to Help In the Preservation of Sight?

by Sir Knight Charles A. Garnes, Honorary P.D.C. and Chairman of the 31st Annual Voluntary Campaign

Two words that go together are "Caring" and "Sharing," and the cry of those who need the more fortunate to care and share are heard throughout the land. We have just completed the holiday season when many people who have been blessed by God in receiving material items are willing to show that they care by sharing their good fortune. Never forget we came into this world without any possessions, and those that God has given us will stay here when he calls us to return from whence we came.

Some people will say those who give do so only to take advantage of a tax deduction, and this may or may not be so, but the fact remains that they "Care enough to Share" with those who need help. One might consider this giving as "God's Children helping God's Children." Those who receive help receive much more benefit than those who have a savings due to a tax deduction. Think about this: Which is more important, the preservation of sight or not having to pay tax on some amount of money large or small? If there were a vote, preservation of sight would win.

We are thankful for those who care and share with the Knights Templar Eye Foundation, Inc., in preparing their wills because without this unknown income we would be more concerned about how we can continue to help those in need. Unfortunately, about half of the Sir Knights will not read this article, so obviously they will not care to share. To those who do read this article and care, I would ask you to share with other Sir Knights, your family, and friends knowledge of the great work being done by your Foundation. There is no greater gift than "The Gift of Sight."

Each month the Knight Templar magazine is mailed to over 200,000 members, yet less than 1/2 of that number are willing to support the Foundation by giving just $10.00 so "That Others May See."

As you come to the end of this message, I hope the spirit of caring and sharing will move you to immediately send a donation to the Knights Templar Eye Foundation, Inc. Don't wait until tomorrow because the spirit will have moved on, and caring and sharing may not be high on your priority list.

The Knights Templar Eye Foundation, Inc., needs and deserves your support. May God continue to bless you and through you help others in need.

Sir Knight Charles A. Garnes, Honorary Past Department Commander and P.G.C. of Pennsylvania, is the Campaign Chairman of the 31st Annual Voluntary Campaign and a member of Duquesne Commandery No. 72, Penn Hills, Pennsylvania. Letter to the Knights Templar Eye Foundation

The help of the Knights Templar made my Christmas much better this year! Without your help it would have been very difficult.

My doctor says I am doing well, and I hope someday I will be able to pay back the Knights Templar. . .with even more. Again, thank you so very much!

Jeaneti Whatley
Hueytown, Alabama

I wish to express my sincere appreciation for the previous and present grant you have given my son Blame to stop his eye deterioration due to glaucoma.

The cost of drops to keep the pressure down has averaged about $90.00 per month, not to mention paying for monthly doctor visits.

I wish I could have financed his surgery, but with Blame having no insurance and my living on Medicare it seemed impossible.

I want to donate this small amount and hope your wonderful organization will continue to help others. You are helping Blame to keep the 10% vision he has left in both eyes.

Vernice J. Staber
Midvale, Utah

My sister was in need of eye surgery, but she had no money for it, and it was a big problem. I just want to send a thank you message to you for giving her this wonderful gift. You have given her so much more, also: You have given her back the independence she so needed, her self worth, and the ability to continue to watch her grandchildren grow.

You have, also, given me a much stronger belief in God. You see, only three years ago our mother passed away. We were both very close to her, and since my sister has been sick most of her life, I believe my mother left me here to take care of her; however, my sister is a strong person, for she consoled me in the darkest times since our Mother has gone.

I just wanted you to know what you have given to our family is much more than you know. My sister is not able to write a letter yet, but we expect she will soon be able to do so.

On behalf of my sister, Betty Sue Elliott, I would like to say: Thank you is not enough for what you have done. God bless you.

Pam Banister
Shallowater, Texas

I am just writing to let you know that my wife's surgery came out fine. Her vision in that eye is 20/40. That is much better than we expected. We sure do thank you from the bottom of our hearts for paying for the surgery as no one else would help us with this. Your Foundation was the last one we could turn to, and you came through for us.

Thomas and Linda Jobs

Thanks to you I had my eye surgery on the tenth of November, and it was successful. I now have 20/30 vision. I have just been fitted with reading glasses. I am so grateful to your organization for the help that you have given us.

History of the Grand Encampment of Knights Templar of the United States of America: Book II

The Grand Master gave a few words of welcome to all present, and thanks to the officers of the Grand Commandery of Ohio. He then asked the Right Eminent Grand Recorder, Sir Knight Paul C. Rodenhauer, to introduce the distinguished guests (included in the FEATURES of the 56th Triennial Conclave). After calling the Grand Encampment to attention, he introduced the Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, F. & A.M. of Ohio, Brother Elmer Newman. Grand Master Dull tendered to the Deputy Grand Master the emblem of authority (a mace) and asked that he preside. Brother Newman expressed his pleasure at being present and representing Most Worshipful Brother Richard M. Wilson, Grand Master of Masons of Ohio, who was unable to attend. After speaking a few words of welcome, he relinquished the mace to the Grand Master, who thanked the escort (Sir Knights of Ivanhoe Commandery No. 54, his home Commandery) and gave them permission to retire. The Right Eminent Grand Prelate, Sir Knight Eugene H. Buxton, was called upon to give the invocation, following which the Grand Recorder called the roll of the Grand Commanderies for the presentation of their state flags, followed by the presentation of the flag of the United States and the Pledge of Allegiance." Several of the distinguished guests who were not Sir Knights were recognized and gave a few words of acknowledgment for such recognition. At 10:30 a recess was called until 10:45 to allow those who were not Sir Knights to leave.

At 10:45 Sir Knight Dull reconvened the Grand Encampment in the first business session. Grand Prelate Buxton again invoked the blessing of Deity, and Grand Master Dull asked Sir Knight Franco Valgattari, Commander, Carroccio Commandery No. 1, Milan, Italy, and Mrs. Claudia Winrod (his interpreter) to come to the platform for a presentation. Sir Knight Valgattari explained that the bad publicity that the Masons of Italy had received (referring to the news media's hype of a group of Masons in Italy who were accused of illegal and unsavory acts) was caused by a few undesirables and explained that after weeding out those undesirables, Freemasonry in Italy was again on the rise, and the Commanderies there continued to be subordinate to the Grand Encampment. He then presented the Grand Master with a beautiful silver engraving.

The roll was called and the preliminary report of the Committee on Credentials showed 434 voting members present, representing 48 Grand Commanderies and 3 Subordinate Commanderies.

The Allocation of the Grand Master was the next order of business. In the portion of his report on the Office of the Grand Recorder, he reported on the stroke suffered by Sir Knight Rodenhauer, early in the triennium, and that his hospitalizations and series of operations necessitated that a successor be found. Sir Knight Rodenhauer's aide, Sir Knight Charles R. Neumann, had taken over as assistant on July 1, 1984. The Grand Master had granted dispensations for Commanderies to: Kodiak Commandery, U.D., Kodiak, Alaska; Skagway Commandery, U.D., Skagway, Alaska; Giacomo Commandery, U.D., Leghorn, Italy; Mediterranean Commandery, U.D., Naples, Italy; Sir Galahad Commandery, U.D., Guadalajara, Mexico; and Santo Domingo Commandery, U.D., Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic. Charters were issued to Hilo Commandery No. 3, Hilo, Hawaii; and Kalakaua Commandery No. 2, Kailua, Hawaii. The Report of the Committee on the Easter Sunrise Memorial Service stated that in the month following the 55th Triennial Conclave (1982), the Committee had received notice that the Military District of Washington would no longer be able to allow the Service to continue with its support as in the past. This was about the same thing that had occurred just a few weeks before the service was scheduled in 1974. The Committee decided to move the Service to the George Washington Masonic National Memorial and seek elsewhere for a band, chorus, and whatever equipment was required. During each of the following three years there were about 750 marching Knights who participated and about 1,000 spectators. The cost of each years celebration was about $11,000.00.

As usual, visiting dignitaries were called upon to speak at various times during the proceedings. And as usual, they were always welcomed and applauded.

The Committee on Finance submitted a budget again requiring a $0.45 increase in per capita (from $2.85 to $3.30). As in the past, this caused considerable discussion. Again, the arguments for the budget: to have the same level of service as in the past, an increase in per capita was necessary, for, although there was no longer rampant inflation, inflation still existed; an increase of 45 cents would mean that each Sir Knight would do without "one can of Coca-Cola" per year, according to Sir Knight John Werner II, P.G.C. of the District of Columbia. Those opposed to the increase wanted to change the monthly issuing of the Knight Templar magazine to either quarterly or once each two months. An amendment was proposed to cut the number of issues to six per year, but the Grand Master ruled it out of order, saying that "You will address the report as it has been given. You can either accept it or refuse it." When the question came, the tellers determined that the proposed Budget passed by a show of hands.

The report of the Committee on the Educational Foundation showed that loans totaling from $1.0 to $1.3 million dollars had been made during each of the three years of this triennium. There was a motion to increase the interest rate from 5% to 7%; it was defeated.

There were nine proposals to change the law; only two passed. The first one passed was a change to Section 114 to read "All officers of the Grand Encampment, Past Grand Masters, and members of standing committees shall be allowed mileage expense and per diem for attendance at the Triennial Conclave." It also specified how the expense would be calculated, and included meetings called in the interim." The other one which was passed was a change to Section 257 which specified that only Templar jewels could be worn on the uniform and in what order they would be placed on the uniform.

A proposal was made to allow the KYCH jewel to be worn with the uniform suspended from a cordon about the neck"; it was defeated. A change to Section 257 of the Statutes concerning the wearing of jewels on the Templar uniform was made which inserted "Jewels of office" at the beginning of the second sentence and deleted all following the last comma of the last sentence; at this writing there has been no further change in this Section. A proposal to withdraw the 1970 Standing Resolution which welcomed Grand Chapters of Royal Arch Masons and Grand Councils of Royal and Select Masters to join the Grand Encampment was withdrawn. As in several past Triennial Conclaves a proposal was made to change the requirements for a Mason to become a Knight Templar; it would require that he be a Blue Lodge Mason only; being a Royal Arch Mason or Cryptic Mason would be optional with each Grand Commandery. Requiring a 213 majority, the proposal was defeated by a vote of 283 to 73. Again a proposal was made to require a vote of 2/3 to change the Constitution (instead of a 3/4 majority), and a simple majority to change a Statute (instead of a 2/3 majority); it failed.

Cancer Program At Illinois Masonic Medical Center Receives Approval From American College Of Surgeons

The Commission on Cancer of the American College of Surgeons (ACS) has granted three-year approval to the cancer program at Illinois Masonic Medical Center. This achievement by the Angelo P. Creticos Cancer Center at Illinois Masonic culminates nearly ten years of staff dedication to providing high-quality care to patients who have cancer.

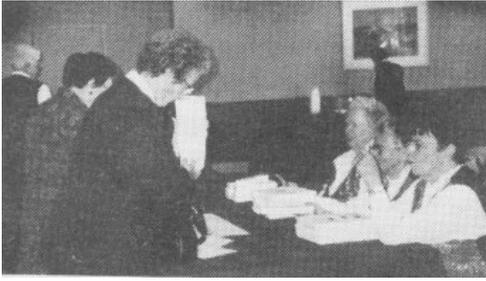

Recognizing that cancer is a complex group of diseases, the ACS program promotes consultation among surgeons, medical oncologists, radiation oncologists, diagnostic radiologists, pathologists, and other cancer specialists. At IMMC's Cancer Center this multidisciplinary approach and cooperation results in improved patient care. Further, through its Latino Cancer Institute and its bilingual cancer team, the cancer program at Illinois Masonic is committed to improving the understanding of cancer-related issues in Chicago's Latino community.

An integral part of a cancer program is the tumor registry. All patients diagnosed or treated for cancer are listed in the registry so that the hospital can have contact with them and make sure that they are receiving continuing care and assistance with rehabilitation. Information collected through the registry allows IMMC to participate in national studies that are designed to improve patient care.

The Illegal Trial of Jesus The Christ – Part I

by Sir Knight Charles A. Wofford
Senior Judge Superior Courts

Preface

This article was inspired by a speech, "The Illegal Trial and Crucifixion of Christ" given by the Honorable Harold R. Banke, Judge, the Court of Appeals of the State of Georgia. Much was drawn from his speech as well as from the works on this subject by Walter M. Chandler and David K. Breed.

The main record of the events prior to, during the course of, and following the arrest, trial, conviction, and crucifixion of Jesus is that contained in the New Testament books of Matthew, chapter 26, verse 47 through chapter 27, verse 26; Mark, chapter 14, verse 43 through chapter 15, verse 15; Luke, chapter 22, verse 47 through Chapter 23, verse 24; John, chapter 18, verse 3, through chapter 19, verse 16.

To properly set the scene of history's most infamous trial, it is necessary to review the scenario of events and the principal characters.

Prologue

Jesus of Nazareth was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another village. He worked in a carpenter shop until he was thirty, and then, for three years, he was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held office. He never married, had a family, or owned a home. He never went to college. He never visited a big city. He never traveled more than two hundred miles from the place where he was born. He never did one of the things that usually accompany greatness and never had credentials other than himself.

While still a young man, the tide of public opinion turned against him. His friends ran away and one even denied him. He was turned over to his enemies. He went through the mockery of a so-called "trial." He was nailed to a cross between two thieves. While he was dying, his executioners gambled for his coat, which was the only piece of property he had on earth. When he was dead, he was taken down, prepared, and laid in a borrowed grave through the love of two friends.

Record of Facts

Sunset ushered in the eventful, fateful, prophetic 14th day of Nisen, 3790 A.L. (Anno Lucis - year of light), 784 A.U.C. (Anno Urbis Conditoe - year of Rome), approximately our Thursday and Friday, April 6 and 7, 30 A.D. (Anno Domini - year of our Lord).

Before supper with his disciples in the Upper Room, Jesus taught them a most profound lesson in humility - He washed their feet. He also startled them with his two prophecies: his betrayal by Judas Iscariot, who left almost immediately after his identification as the betrayer, and following the Last Supper Jesus gave His "New Commandment": That ye love one another."

He then gave his second prophecy that Peter would deny him thrice before the cock crowed.

From the "Upper Room" Jesus and the eleven remaining disciples went to a peaceful garden, covered by olive trees, called "Gethsemane." Jesus prayed three times, and each time he found his disciples sleeping. The third time He said: "The hour is at hand, and the Son of Man is betrayed into the hand of sinners. Rise let us be going; behold he is at hand that doth betray me." Judas and his mob came walking through the darkness, their way lit by torches and lanterns. Judas walked up to Jesus and according to the prearranged signal said, "Hail, Master, and kissed him." Jesus was arrested by the Temple guard and a small detachment of Roman soldiers. While this was happening, impulsive, impetuous Peter drew his sword, and cut off the ear of Malchus, the High Priest's servant.

Jesus was arrested about midnight and was tried six times before he was crucified.

The chronology of these trials was as follows.

1:00 A.M. to 5:00 A.M.

1. Annas
2. Caiaphas
3. Sanhedrin

5:00 A.M. to 6:00 A.M.

4. Pilate
5. Herod (Antipas)
6. Pilate (again)

Annas, a former high priest, was president of the Sanhedrin.

Caiaphas, son-in-law of Annas, was high priest. Jesus was taken before Annas for a preliminary hearing to secure evidence to submit to the Sanhedrin. The subsequent hearing before Caiaphas was for the same purpose. Caiaphas went further and attempted to wrest a confession.

The Sanhedrin, Hebrew Supreme Court, called together by Caiaphas at his palace, tried Jesus on the testimony of two false witnesses. Jesus had denounced the greed and corruption of the priests and their practices in the temple, resulting in their enmity. The Sanhedrin had actually plotted the destruction of Jesus before his arrest. The Sanhedrin was composed of seventy-one members: a president, vice president, and twenty-three each of priests, scribes, and elders. The Sanhedrin met in that portion of the temple known as the "Lishkhath Haggazith" or "Hall of Hewn Stones."

The judges sat in a half circle with the president and vice president in the center and at each end sat a secretary (reporter). One secretary took all prosecution evidence and recorded all votes for conviction; the other took all defense evidence and recorded all votes for exoneration. The judges voted by ballot. There were two charges against Jesus, sedition and blasphemy. The charge of sedition was abandoned, Jesus was convicted on the charge of blasphemy. This was a capital offense under Hebrew law, punishable with death by stoning. Crucifixion was never prescribed under Hebrew law. Roman law had divested the Jews of the power to execute; therefore, it was necessary for Jesus to be taken before the Roman procurator, Pilate.

The Sanhedrin procession reached the Praetorium before daylight. They did not enter because Passover preparation had begun and Levitic contamination would have ensued; therefore, this trial took place on the palace portico.

Pilate asked "What accusation bring ye against this man?" Since Pilate had always confirmed their sentences without question the Sanhedrin Judges were surprised. When he heard the charges, especially Jesus' claim of kingship, Pilate led Jesus into the judgment hall, to examine him privately. This interrogation satisfied Pilate that the claim was spiritual, not political. He returned with Jesus to the door of the Praetorium, and pronounced his acquittal with, "I find no fault in this man." This verdict infuriated the mob, and they supplemented the charges by saying, "He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Jewry, beginning with Galilee to this place."

Part II of "The Illegal Trial of Jesus" will appear in the March issue!

Brother Cecil H. Underwood: The Youngest and the Oldest Governor!

by Dr. Ivan M. Tribe, KYCH, 32°

Twentieth century America has had many noted state governors who were also Masons. They have ranged from such significant figures as Kentucky's A. B. "Happy" Chandler, who became baseball commissioner, to Louisiana's Jimmie Davis, who became a member of the Country Music Hall of Fame. George Wallace and James Rhodes both set a record for serving a total of sixteen years in their respective states of Alabama and Ohio. Earl Warren of California went on to become a distinguished Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. Current Masonic governors include the chief executives of Indiana, Missouri, Wisconsin, and West Virginia. The latter, Cecil Harland Underwood, perhaps ranks as unique in that thirty-six years elapsed between his first and second term. Back in 1957, Underwood became the nation's youngest governor at thirty-four. On his seventy-fourth birthday in 1996, this same man became America's oldest governor-elect.

Cecil Harland Underwood was born in Joseph Mill in Tyler County, West Virginia, on November 5, 1922. His parents, Silas and Della Forrester Underwood, operated a family farm. Young Cecil received plenty of agricultural work experience at home, particularly during the Great Depression when his father took cash paying jobs away from home. He attended elementary school in a one-room, rural locale. In high school at the county seat of Middlebourne, the youth participated in such activities as the speech club and the Future Farmers of America. As a senior, he became a member of the National Honor Society and graduated in 1940, fifth in his class. He also delivered the Gettysburg Address at a local Lincoln Day dinner, which paved the way for his later entry into politics.

The young farm youth received a tuition scholarship to Salem College, where he managed to graduate in three years. He majored in political science, speech, and history while minoring in biology. A busy student, Underwood also had a part-time job, participated in debates, and served as president of his senior class. He also served briefly in the Army Reserves but was discharged because of an abnormal heart beat.

Following graduation, Cecil Underwood took a position as a high school biology teacher in St. Mary's, West Virginia, where he spent three years. Meanwhile, he also embarked on his entry into politics by successfully seeking a seat in the lower house of the West Virginia legislature as a Republican. He went on to serve six consecutive terms in the House of Delegates, becoming a minority floor leader from 1949. Since being a legislator in West Virginia ranked only as a part-time position (at a $500.00 annual salary), Cecil left his teaching position in 1946 to become an assistant to the president of Marietta College in nearby Cross River, Ohio. Although this job had more flexible hours during legislative sessions, Underwood wore a variety of hats including recruiting students, alumni fundraising, and helping with student activities, and coaching the debate team. In 1950 he accepted the vice-presidency at his alma mater of Salem College, where he performed somewhat similar duties plus being in charge of public relations.

Cecil H. Underwood began his Masonic journey on March 16, 1954, when he received his Entered Apprentice degree in Phoenix Lodge No. 73 in Sistersville, West Virginia, on March 16, 1954. Advancing quickly, he was passed on April 6, 1954, and raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason on May 28, 1954. Three years later when in his first term as governor, Underwood took the Scottish Rite degrees, completing them in John W. Morris Consistory in Charleston on August 24, 1957. He became a Noble of Beni Kedem Shrine Temple on May 15, 1959. In his second term as governor on October 6, 1997, the A.A.S.R.,S.J. elected him a KCCH. Not limiting his fraternal associations exclusively to Masonic ones, Underwood also affiliated with the Elks.

Although the Republican Party had been strong and influential in the Mountain State from 1896 through 1929, the impact of the Great Depression and the decline of the coal industry had left the GOP in a weakened position. However, by the mid-1950s, times seemed ripe for a modest comeback. During the controversial administration of then governor William Marland, the Democrats had become torn by schism; one of their senators, Brother Harley Kilgore, had died; and the usual unifier, Brother Matthew M. Neely, who was in advancing age, had begun to slow down. Furthermore, the incumbent President Dwight Eisenhower's popularity cut across party lines. All this plus his own broad appeal combined to give Cecil Underwood atypical strength for a Republican. As a result, the young minority leader made a strong candidate, and with some help from the Eisenhower coattail effect, Brother Cecil H. Underwood was propelled into the statehouse by a 63,000 vote majority, 440,502 to 377,121.

As governor, Underwood proved to be both a capable and honest chief executive. In his first year in office he enjoyed a fairly harmonious relationship with the legislature despite strong Democratic majorities. Thereafter, partisanship became increasingly strong as Democrats sought to rebound from their 1956 losses, and with the economy in recession during much of 1958, their chances did indeed improve. Another 16,000 coal mining jobs went by the wayside between 1955 and 1961. While Underwood neither started nor could alter this long-time economic trend, it did not bode well for his political success in the short run.

Nonetheless, history tended kindly toward Cecil's initial term in the State Capitol. As the Mountain State's pre-eminent historian, Otis K. Rice, phrased it:

Cecil Underwood in January 1957, shortly after beginning his first term as governor of West Virginia.

"When Underwood left office, there was general agreement that he had given the state dignified and responsible leadership. He was held in high esteem ... in both the state and nation, and his political future seemed bright."

Delays occurred in Underwood's political future, however. With his term as governor expiring in January 1961, Cecil sought a seat in the U.S. Senate but lost to the incumbent, Jennings Randolph. In 1964 he made his first effort to regain the governorship but lost to Brother Hulett C. Smith by some 77,000 votes. In 1968 he lost the GOP primary to Arch Moore. In 1976 he suffered his worst defeat, when the immensely wealthy John D. Rockefeller IV defeated the badly outspent former governor by a margin of more than 242,000.

Although Cecil Underwood had no political successes in this period, he did prosper in the private economic sector.

Brother Underwood initially took a position as vice president for the Island Creek Coal and later worked as director of Civic Affairs for Monsanto Chemical. From 1972 to 1975 he was president of Bethany College in the "northern panhandle" and later worked for Franswood, New York Life, and Princess Coal.

Active as a volunteer, Underwood served on the board of his alma mater, Salem College, from 1978. (After 1989 the school was known as Salem Teikyo U.) He also served on the state boards of the Cancer Society and the Boy Scouts. Between 1960 and 1988, the former governor served as a delegate at large to every GOP National Convention in each year except 1968.

In 1996 at an age when many career officeholders retire, Cecil Underwood decided to make one more run for governor. As in 1956, disarray among Democrats worked to the advantage of the outnumbered Republicans. In 1992 State Senator Charlotte Pritt had nearly ousted incumbent Democratic governor, Gaston Caperton, in a hotly contested primary battle. When Pritt won the 1996 Democratic nomination, many Capertonites ranged from cool to hostile in their attitude toward the outspoken feminist. While most West Virginia Democrats favor liberal positions on economic and labor questions, many are also socially conservative, and these folks gravitated toward Underwood. As a result, Cecil won a 36,000 vote victory. This time Underwood won by a smaller margin because there were no

Cecil H. Underwood

Eisenhower coattails (Clinton carried the state handily.), but the governor managed to have enough victory margin to bring seven new state senators and five new house members into office with him. (The West Virginia legislature remains solidly Democratic.)

Inaugurated in mid-January 1997, Governor Underwood has fulfilled his duties with a quiet dignity as West Virginia's 32nd chief executive. One can not yet predict whether or not he will seek another term. According to one close observer, Underwood said that he was keeping his options open and might seek a third term if his health remains good and the condition of the Mountain State stays on an even keel. However, even if Brother Cecil Underwood chooses never to run for office again, it would seem unlikely that his feat of twice serving his state as governor in two eras separated by nearly four decades of time will be duplicated too often. Also, few are likely to have experienced being both America's youngest and oldest governor in the same lifetime.

Note: I wish to express my appreciation to the staff of the Grand Lodge of West Virginia, Ms. Joan Sansbury of the A.A.S.R. Library in Washington D.C. and the Secretary of Beni Kedem Shrine Temple for the data on Governor Underwood's Masonic record. Thanks also to my student assistant, Miss Abby Gail Goodnite.

Our Passion - Our Love for the Craft - This is our pride!

by Sir Knight Joseph A. Boni, Sr. Warden
St. Elmo Commandery No. 64, Chicago, Illinois

Last spring I had the opportunity to visit the Illinois Knights Templar Home In Paxton, Illinois. The Templar Home is not only for people with York Rite ties. It is for anyone who is sponsored by a Knight Templar. The person can be a relative, friend, or even an acquaintance. There is no distinction.

The day started out with lunch and a few laughs with some of my fellow Sir Knights and our Commandery "Mom," Caroline Von Werder. Then, we drove to the Home.

I was thoroughly impressed by the cleanliness of this home. Also, the Home was very cheerful, including the staff and residents. I was given a tour by Sir Knight Robert Von Werder, who also serves on the Templar Home Committee. After the tour, we served dinner to all the residents of the Home. This was a gala affair for all. The residents were so happy, as if it was their senior prom all over again. Some spend the day in the beauty shop to make sure they keep up with appearances. Each enjoyed the special menu that was prepared for them. I received more thanks and praise this day than on any other. It was a feeling of appreciation.

After the tables were cleared off and the residents were back in their rooms, the staff served us dinner, and we enjoyed an evening of fellowship with fellow Sir Knights, some wives, and the staff.

Once again, Brethren, Masonry has given me a feeling of pride and accomplishment. This day taught me a great lesson. First, I was reassured about brotherhood (while having lunch on the way to the Templar Home). Next, I learned humility (being a servant of others), and finally, when we were served dinner by the Templar Home staff, I was taught dignity. It was a great lesson in Humble Pride.

We as Masons do not argue to defend ourselves under the public eye; we are willing to give to those in need, and we even serve those who cannot help themselves, which means we remain humble. But each of us has a bright glow deep inside that is our passion, our love for the Craft. This is our pride! This is also why Masonry is so powerful to those who embrace its tenets. I will always be thankful for this lesson that I have learned from Masonry.

North America, the Ancient Craft, And Three Centuries Past

by Dr. Stephen R. Greenberg, KYCH, 33

The French and Indian War erupted across the eastern shores of North America during the 18th century extending over a vast area southward from Lake George and Lake Champlain; eastward from Lake Erie and to the reaches of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Into this great expanse entered the French from Canada, desirous of reaching New Orleans and the British who came from the northeast across Nova Scotia and the upper Atlantic seaboard. Several eastern Indian tribes also appeared; the Ottawas, the Ojibways, the Iroquois, and the Mohawks from New York.

At first, the Indians were passive observers. Soon, however, the several tribes sent warriors into the conflict, initially on the French side, and then, by the influence of trinkets and firewater" generously supplied by the British, to their side. Many of the military leaders of that time were embroiled in the conflict. Famous names in history; Amherst, Braddock, Wolfe, Montcalm and a then obscure American colonel by the name of George Washington; all were involved in glory and defeat in battles at such places as Fort William Henry, Fort Oswego, Ticonderoga, Louisbourg and Quebec. Out of this first strife was forged the crucible in which were many of the officers and soldiers who fought for the colonial cause in the American Revolution, just over the horizon. Washington, Putnam, Stark, and Pomeroy were numbered among those gallant Americans who received their first military experience during the French and Indian War. Indeed, it was here that Americans first learned how to fight; a lesson that would profoundly serve to end, for all time, the rule of England over the shores of North America.

Between 1688 and 1783, England was engaged in a series of five wars with France and its allies. The first three began in Europe and spread across the sea to the shores of America to involve the French and British colonists. The fourth conflict during the years of 1754 to 1763 started in America between the French and English colonists but subsequently assumed global aspects with fighting also in both Europe and Asia.

The fifth conflict extending from 1775 to 1781 is well recognized as the Revolutionary War. The French and Indian War was so named because its participants were initially the French colonists and their Indian allies resident between the great lakes and the Ohio River. The British colonists looked also to this territory as a potential home for their expanding population.

One of the most impressive victories of the French and Indian wars was the capture of Quebec in 1759 by the British. It was a battle which cost the lives of two great leaders on both sides, General Wolfe of England and General Montcalm from France, and it was a conflict which terminated French desires in North America.

The French and Indian War ended in North America in 1763. The British colonists, along with some American allies, succeeded in removing France as a colonial power on these shores. Even in these first years of belligerency in North America, Masonry had begun to establish a foothold on this continent when a charter was issued by the Grand Lodge of Ireland to form a lodge in Nova Scotia. Lord George Sackville, a colonel in the 20th Irish Foot Regiment, was designated to serve as the Worshipful Master; Lt. Colonel Edward Cornwallis and Captain John Milburn became the Senior and Junior Wardens of the lodge. Edward Cornwallis was subsequently elected as the Grand Master of Ireland.

In Europe, the Seven Years War was being waged between the armies of England and France near the old German town of Minden. In this battle was the notable appearance of the 20th Irish Foot Regiment serving gallantly in the British lines. The bravery and discipline shown by the members of this regiment have never been exceeded in the annals of British military service. The final victory of the British force at

"Even in these first years of belligerency in North America, Masonry had begun to establish a foothold on this continent when a charter was issued by the Grand Lodge of Ireland to form a lodge in Nova Scotia."

Minden brought the 20th Irish Foot Regiment much honor. In memory of this triumph the name and colors of this regiment were given to a military lodge composed of its members; it assumed the name of Minden Lodge No. 63. This regiment continued to serve in Germany until 1762 and then returned to England. In 1775 it was ordered to North America to help quell the rebellious actions of the colonists. In 1776 the regiment was dispatched to Quebec. Recruiting of troops to join the British army fell short of its goal, and the Crown was forced to conclude an agreement with Duke Charles of Brunswick for 4,300 men to serve under the command of Major General Frederick Adolph Riedesel.

The German troops left Brunswick in May of 1776, arriving at Quebec later in the same year. Here they were placed under the command of General Bourgogne. It was here, also, that the friendships first forged at Minden with members of the 20th Foot Irish Regiment were renewed.

Later General Bourgogne was captured and his surrender forced at Saratoga to General Gates on October 12, 1777.

Masonic Brethren serving in the 20th Irish Foot Regiment formed a Masonic alliance with their German Brethren. General Riedesel, who later became a Mason, as a precaution against enemy attack, ordered his colors to be removed from their poles and sewn into the mattress on his wife's bed. This lady, known affectionately to the soldiers as "Lady Fritz," slept upon the regimental colors throughout their subsequent captivity by the British troops.

Initially all of the prisoners taken by the British army were quartered near Boston, but upon the arrival of the British fleet in 1778, they were marched southward to Virginia, arriving in Charlottesville in January of 1779 after a most severe wintertime journey. Here the soldiers erected wooden barracks for shelter against the cruel weather.

It was at this juncture that events took a turn of significance to Freemasonry. Among the captured Germans were nine Freemasons, all members of two Prussian lodges. Six others in the group of prisoners were also members of the Craft including General Riedesel, and among the British detainees was the entire membership of Minden Lodge No. 63.

Interestingly, this Irish military lodge continued its Masonic Labors, even under these severe circumstances. Four candidates were initiated on January 4, 1780. Among them was Johannes Herrick and Carl von Bernewitz. On February 22, 1780, three additional candidates were initiated. It is quite possible that only a few of the Germans present at these ceremonies understood English well enough to follow the work with competence; it, therefore, became desirable to work also in German.

A meeting was held on February 22, 1780, to consider if the constitution of the fraternity would allow the members to meet for the purposes of Masonic labor and election of officers. The minutes of this meeting were preserved by Brother von Bernewitz and later returned by him to Brunswick Lodge, a lodge chartered in 1741 at the cessation of hostilities.

It is of interest to observe that thirteen Brethren were in attendance at this meeting, including three candidates who had just been elected to membership.

A Worshipful Master was elected, but he accepted this office only with the provision that German would be the language that would be used in all lodges of instruction. No Masonic work would be permitted. In his acceptance address, the new Master recommended that secrecy, morality, uprightness, faithfulness, and fraternal love be the ultimate fraternal goals. At the close of this meeting, a table lodge was conducted much as such lodges are convened to this day.

The German officers of Minden Lodge No. 63 rejoined the army in Canada in October of 1780, returning once more to Brunswick in Germany in 1783 when the signing of a treaty in Paris brought an end to hostilities.

Minden Lodge No. 63 remained intact until about 1786. It was eventually included in a list of erased warrants in 1801 because no word of this lodge had been received by the Grand Lodge of Ireland for over five years. Minden Lodge did survive, however, for on February 25 of 1812, its charter was renewed. It was further recorded that on September 25, 1847, the Brethren of this lodge arrived with the 20th Foot Regiment in Kingston, Ontario. On December 27, 1848, the Brethren of this lodge joined with the local Brethren of Kingston in celebration of St. John the Evangelist and to commemorate the centenary of the re-issuing of the charter of Minden Lodge No. 63.

By 1851 the lodge roster held the names of 192 Master Masons. Unfortunately, the termination of this lodge is also recorded in a letter directed to the Grand Lodge of Ireland on December 8 of 1868. In it is noted that the warrant, jewels, and equipment of Minden Lodge were lost somewhere in India during an uprising.

There is yet something more to be related concerning General Riedesel and his Lady Fritz," who had slept upon the regimental colors in Virginia. Upon his release the General took up residence in Canada. It was here, in the town of Sorel on Christmas Eve of 1779, that "Lady Fritz," espying a pine tree in her garden outlined against the cobalt winter sky, conceived the idea of puffing small lighted candles upon its branches, thereby creating a new page in Canadian history by giving this nation its very first illuminated Christmas tree.

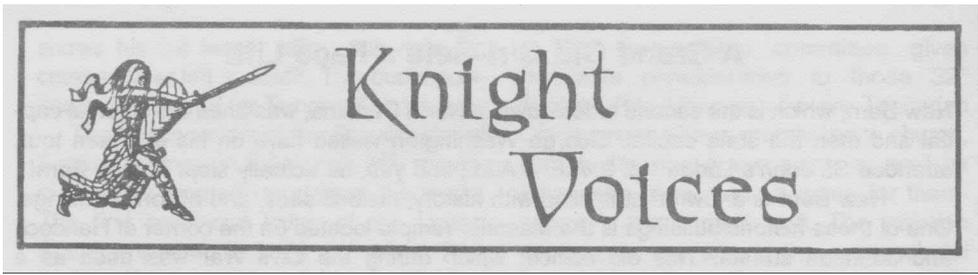

The author wishes to express appreciation to Most Worshipful Brother John Patience, Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, for providing valuable assistance in the preparation of this paper.
